This young lady has had a most theoretical training for the stage, she made her debut at the Walmutstreet the ater in Philadelphia when that establishment was under the management of the celebrated Mrs. John Drew. After playing the leading soutbrette business there for a period of three years she accepted an engagement at Wallack's theater in New York, where she soon established herself as a genuine favorite. For the past three years she has been a prominent "star" in the dramatic firmament, and has played many successful engagements in the various large cities of the east, west and north. A native of Virgilits, she for the first time in her dramatic career, pays a visit to the south, and the flattering encommens she has received from the critics of New Orleans and St. Louis must have been highly gratifying. Other Twick is the piece selected with Miss Mordaunt as "Nancy Sykes," a character in which she is said to be without a rival on the American stage at the present time. She will be supported by the full strength of the company, and will certainly play a successful engagement.

-The following, clipped from the Jackson (Tenn.) Herald, in reference to Captain Lindsey's wonderful telegraphic instrument, of which the APPEAL made mention Jackson (Tenn.) Herald, in reference to Captain Lindsey's wonderful telegraphic instrument, of which the Appeal made mention several months ago, will convey to the reader an idea of the wonderful perfectness arrived at in the art of telegraphic printing: "While in the telegraph office this evening we witnessed some of the marvelous movements of Captain Lindsey's new 'Printing Telegraph Instrument.' This instrument, which presents at a giance the evidence of highly-wrought and ingenious mechanism, prints the dispatch in bold Roman type. A bank of keys, representing the alphabet—an alphabetical knob for each letter—enclosed in a space of about four by eight inches, is located in front of the printing mechanism, and by depressing consecutively the knobs representing the letters of any word it is desired to print, a ministure printing-press, actuated by electricity, darts iorward with a lightning-like impulse, and as quickly returns to its position, leaving upon the surface of the paper the letter corresponding to the knob depressed, in clear, distinct type; and all this is done while the type-wheel is revolving between one and two hundred revolutions per minute. We personally manipulated the 'key-board,' and found the mechanism to respond promptly and perfectly for each depression of an alphabetical knob, spelling the words with a rapidity a little less than marvelous. The beauties of this invention are that the 'dispatch is received in printed forms, whereby liability to mistakes is entirely obviated, and a perfectly legible copy in bold Roman type given. But its chief beauty consists in the fact that any one at first sight of the instrument can manipulate it; our experience being given in proof of the assertion. The success of this invention seems established, and it must ultimately revolutionize the existing system." We learn, also, that Captain Lindsey will visit this city in a few days, with the instrument, when its workings may be seen and tested by those interested in the progress of telegraphy.

THE death of Decatur J. Doyle, announced in the SUNDAY APPEAL, has cast a deep gloom in the hearts of his large circle of friends in this city, by whom he was held in the highest esteem. He was conspicuous as a soldier in the Confederate army, and bore to his final rest undeniable evidence of his gallantry—the scars of wounds received in one of the terrible engagements in the western department. Mr. Doyle was reared in Memphis, and leaves a young wife to mourn his loss. His funeral will take place this afternoon, a notice of which appears in another column.

MEMPHIS AND KNOXVILLE.

We have never said anything unkind

the Opposition to the Mestiphia and Knoxville Railroad in Bolivar Means,

We have never said anything unkind about the men who oppose our railroad, and we never intend to do so, says the Bolivar Bulletin of Friday, because they have a right to take whatever course on the subject they think projer, however detrimental it may be to their own interests or to the interest of this town and its illinabitants. We wish, however, to make an appeal to them in pinin language, and with feelings of the ulmost kindness, to cease this opposition, and list file road be built. Although there are bitt very few of them, they succeed in retarding the work, and if they sould, would defeat it entirely. The only hope of Bolivar to become a flourishing and prosperous town, compared with the other towns in West Tennessee, is to get this road, and to get it speedily. Jackson has gained twice, as much es we have, although ours is as good a county is Midison, Secause she has competing roads. So well satisfied are her people of the value of competing roads, that although they now have two, they have, within the last two years, voted seventy-five thousand dollars to the Memphis and Jackson road, fifty thousand collars to the Jackson and Tennessee river road, and one hundred thousand dollars to the Jackson and Birmingham road. These subscriptions were carried by a majority of more than ten to one. Give Bolivar the Memphis and Knoxville road and she would enjoy advantages that Jackson does not. She would have a direct road to Memphis, which is a matter of great importance. She would have equal advantages on the lines to St. Louis and Chicago, and she would also have what is more important than all, a direct road into the linestone, marble, iron and coal regions of Middle Tennessee, which Jackson and no other town in West Tennessee has. Why should not the people of Bolivar have a right to be neard? Why should a few men, even though they be men of wealth, stand in the way of an almost unanimous public sentiment? Is Bolivar always to be behind other towns in growth, progress and improvement? We speak carnestly, becaus ment? Is Bolivar always to be behind other towns in growth, progress and improvement? We speak earnestly, because we feel deeply, We know that the opponents of this road are not only injuring themselves, but they are injuring the whole community—retarding an enterprise which is to enrich a large portion of the State. Middle and West Tennessee are both greatly interested in this road, and for a few men to throw impediments in the way seems hard. We ask them for their own sakes, and for the sake of our town, county and State, not to stand in the way of the enterprise. If three-fourths of our citizens are not in favor of the enterprise and of assisting it, then, we say, let it be way of the enterprise. If three-fourths of our citizens are not in favor of the enterprise and of assisting it, then, we say, let it be stopped; but by all means let the voice of the people be heard. Many of the people in our own county and McNairy have expended their money and their labor in good faith to get a railroad to Hoilvar, relying upon the promises of the people here to help them, and knowing that Bollyar would reap the hon's share of the benefits. Is it right, is it generous, for a few men in this place, against the wish of almost the whole community, to prevent the work being carried on and to cause the people in the country to lose their money and their labor, and cause Bollvar to lose the benefits of their trade? We do hope that all persons who have heretofore retarded the building of the Memphis and Knoxville road from Bollvar to the Tennessee river will cease their warfare, take a dispassionate view before us, and cheerfully join hands with those who are working for the growth and future prosperity of our town and county. If there is a man in this community who cannot get his own consent to assist in building our road, then, at least, let him no longer endeavor to hinder others. If there was a reasonable doubt that this road would work a disadvantage to our town and people, we would oppose it with all our might, but as the facts are all the other way, we deem it nothing but our duty to sustain and encourage the speedy building of the same with all the ability and means at our command.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE History of the Grange Movement is the title of a book of five hundred and thirty-four pages, from the pen of Edward Windon Martin, that capnot fail to find a Windon Martin, that cannot fail to find a purchaser in every "granger" in the country. It is an encyclopedia, full up of information as it is of every kind, character and description calculated to satisfy inquirers into the growth and purposes of an organization that threatens to revolutionize public sentiment. It is divided into four parts, containing thirty-one pages, and is professely illustrated with the portraits of leading grangers and pictures of places and buildings of interest. The first part treats of railroad monopolies; the second of coal monopolies; the third of farmers' wrongs, and the fourth of pairons of husbandry. This will sufficiently indicate the scope of the work, which is from the press of the National publishing company of Philadelphia, Chleago and St. Louis. It is sold by subscription only.

THE January number of Blackwood

THE January number of Blackwood contains the conclusion of "The Parisians," which adds one more to the list of Bulwer's charming novels. "The Story of Valentine and his Brother" is commenced in this number; the second number of "International Vanities," treating of "Forms," telling of the wording of diplomatic and other documents, and the languages in which they are written; "John Stuart Mill: an Autobiography," telling the story of a precocious and isolated childhood, and its effect on the whole future life of the man; the "Note Relating to the Story of the Missing Bills" is as entertaining as the story litself; "A Piece of Heather," is a saucy little poem; "The Indian Mutiny." by Sir Hope Grant, is an article evidently written by one who feels deeply on the subject of this terrible revolt; then we have an account of the "New Year's Political Aspect." The increased size of the type is a decided improvement, making the page larger and handsomer, and still more closely resembling the original. THE January number of Blackwood ment, making the page larger and handsomer, and still more closely resembling the original, Address the Leonard Scott publishing com-

From an article on "Earth Closet" we learn that Dr. Cunningham has proved the existence in cholera excreta of an animacule termed englenia, which is developed in countless myriads in putrefying cholera material. The most efficient of all agents in the development and multiplication of englenia is, undoubtedly, wet or water sewage in hot climates. The real destroyer will be the system of dry sewage. Dry earth, with the ald of vegetation, prevents all further chemical change of an injurious nature. "Our experience in lower Bengal proves the resultant to be a valuable manure, and the same experience shows that in some jails which were formerly decimated by cholera the disease is now nearly un-by cholera the disease is now nearly unknown." THE LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST, with reminiscences and personal recollections of the great American tragedian, by James Reese (Colley Cibber), which have been appearing for several months past, in weekly instalments in the Philadelphia Sunday Mercury, is now in press, and will be published in a few days, in book form, by T. B. Peterson & Erothers, Philadelphia. The author, Mr. Reese, was not only a warm admirer of the tragedian, but a long-time friend; one of the few men who understood Mr. Forrest, not only professionally but socially, and he had opportunities possessed by no one else, of appreciating his character in the private details of his career. He has written and added to the work as originally published in the Sunday Mercury, several introductory chapters, which confain full and complete history of Mr. Forest ife, from the time of his birth until the time of his death, as well as many anecdotes and incidents which have never been collected nor published before. He has also carefully revised and re-written the whole of his THE LIFE OF EDWIN FORREST, with ly revised and re-written the whole of his Reminiscinces and Personal Recollections, and the whole will now be published in one large duodecimo velume of near six hundred pages, and be printed from new typs on the finest white paper. Every copy of the work will contain a portrait of Edwin Forrest, engraved on steel, in line and stipple, in the finest style of the engraver's art, from the last picture for which Mr. Forrest sat, and which he pronunced to be the best portrait ever taken of himself, as well as a copy of his autography, and his last will in full. The work will be bound in morocco cloth, gilt-back, and will be sold to subscribers at the low price of two dollars. Advance copies of this work will be sent, post-paid, to all subscribers, prior to the day of publication, upon any one remitting the price, two dollars, at once to the publisher, T. B. Peterson & Brothers, 306 Chesinut street, Philadelphia, All copies of this work subscribed for prior to the day of publication proof impressions of the portrait of Edwin Forrest on India proof paper; therefore, all persons wishing proof impressions of Mr. Forrest's portrait, must send their orders at once to the publishers, as the first impressions are always the best, and all copies of the work will be sent to subscribers in the order they are subscribed for. Agents and canvassers are wanted everywhere to engage in the sale of the above work, who can make large wages at it. Address allorders and letters to the publishers.

The Saint Chrysostom's Magazine for revised and re-written the whole of his eminiscences and Personal Recollections, and

THE Saint Chrysostom's Magazine for February is to hand. The following is the very interesting table of contents that challenges the attention of all members of the Episcopal church: "Editorial," "Fernyhorst Court. Chapters xxv!, xxvil, xxvili," "An Ultra Protestant," "A remonstrance," "Reverence due to the Sacred Name. Rev. F. C. Ewer, D.D.," "Benditta Minelil. 'Elia," "Common Sense of Ritaul and Ecclesiastical Symbolism," "Historical Sketches, VII. Overthrow of Paganism," "Frequent Communien. St. Francis of Sales," "Meditations, vii," Lights at the Holy Communion, "Samuel Rosevelt Johnson, Rev. C. F. Seymour, D.D." "Religious Art," "Missionary Article," Septuagesima Sunday, "Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary," Shrove-Tuesday," Ash-Wednesday," "St. Mathias," "The Greatest of these is Charlity," "Foreign Notes—Monthly Summary," "Short Sermons," "Catechism on the Christian Virtues," "Calendar for February," "The Gradual Catechism," "Scrape worth Saving," "Book Notices," "Publishers' Notices," "Publishers' Notices," "Publishers' Notices," "Publishers' Notices," "The editor, addressing his subsoribers, says: "With this number of the Magazine we close our first year. To many of our subscribers we owe an explanation which could be made at no better time than the present. The first number of The Snint Chrysostom's chapel as an 'additional medium, other than tha ordinary ones, through which they might "minister the doctrine of Christ, and teach the people committed to their care and charge with all diligence to keep and preserve the ordinary ones, through which they might "minister the doctrine of Christ, and teach the people committed to their care and charge with all diligence to keep and preserve the same." The first number was a small one, and yet met with very favorable mention and patronage—so favorable, indeed, that the clergy were greatly encouraged in their undertaking and persuaded of its ultimate success. It was a 'venture.' The clergy hoped and prayed that, at least, it 'might do no harm,' and if the One who overruies all the works of man should permit it to be, in any measure, an instrument for good, they knew that it would not be 'of themselves,' but that they must in gratitude exclaim with Bt. Chrysostom, 'Glory be to God for all things!' In the second number there appeared a letter of generous commendation from lishup Neely, in which he speaks of the magusine as containing a 'large amount of excellent and profitable rending matter,' and as being 'as readable, free from printers' biunders, and as well made up, every way, as one can find anywhere. Thereafter appeared commendatory letters, also, from Bishop Tuttle; Bishop Whipple, and Bishop Robertson. The magazine was then enlarged, and received patronage offailte of parcichial limits. In a few months it became apparent that the magazine could fill the then empty place smeng church monthles. The editors were therefore induced to again enlarge and much improve the magazine, and, on the first of October, opened their subscription lists to churchmen generally. It has been done in a quiet way, with as little ostentation and nother as possible. We have not made ourselves thoroughly known as yet, but we have already received a very flattering patronage and commendation. There have been many islitures in the same work that we have undertaken. We make no wonderful promises or boasts, but, with God's help, we hope to continue the publication of the Saint Chrysostom's Mayariae successfully."

MEMPHIS AND PADUCAIL. Annual Meeting of Stockholders-Reports of Officers.

We copy from the Paducah Kentuckian of last week the following in relation to the meeting in that city of the stockholders of the Memphis and Paducah railroad, and the facts developed there: "The prasident, Mr.
Ex. Norton, of New York, was present and submitted his report, together with that of superintendent Wilber, Secretary Monsarrat, and other officers. These reports show that the affairs of the road are in first rate condition and its prospect most fattering. Notwithstanding the money panic, work has been pashed steadily forward, and the president announced at the meeting that the whole unfinished line was under contract. Wm. & T.
C. Smith have taken the contract for grading the road from Dyersburg to Ripley, and Child, Stevens & Co. were awarded the contract for bridging and crossties. It is confidently expected that the whole line will be finished within the present year. The following statements and disbursements show the business done in 1873: $68,211 (0) Net earnings ...

The average number of miles operated during the year was ninety, showing the average earnings per mile to have been one thousand seven nundred and forty-two dollars and seventy-seven cents. The proportion of operating expenses to gross earnings was fifty-six and one-half per cent. (Sixty-three and one-third per cent. in 1872), snowing a very satisfactory decrease and giving the strongest aviand one-half per cent. (sixty-three and one-third per cent. in 1872), snowing a very satisfactory decrease, and giving the strongest evidence of the superior management of the road. When it is considered that the above figures are for an unfinished road, cut in two, and without any satisfactory connections with which to do through business, they s, em remarkable. The following are the directors elected for the ensuing year: Ex. Norton and J. S. Rozers, New York: Judge L. S. Trimble, Paducah; H. S. McComb, Wilmington, Delaware; General A. M. West, Oxford, Mississippi; John Overton, Jr., A. T. Lacey, James Elder and Horace Grath, Memphis. The present and probable future officers of the road are known to most of our readers. They are Ex. Norton, president; Hon. L. S. Trimble, vice-president; J. W. Wilbur, general superintendent; N. Monsarrat, secretary; John L. Norton, treasurer; James L. Meigs, chief engineer. As citizens of Paducah, we cannot let pass this opportunity of giving our testimony to the courtesy and fairness of the superintendent, Mr. Wilbur, and the secretary, Mr. Monsarrat, toward the business men and business interests of Paducah. No complaint is made of any other officers, and the general management of the road is more satisfactory to the people of Paducah than it has ever been before; but we mention Mr. Monsarrat and Wilbur, because their headquarters are here, and because our business men have to deal more directly with them than with the others. Among other things done by the stockholders was the ratification of the traffic contract with the Paducah and Northwestern railway."
